

A teacher realizes that her retirement money will not be sufficient to live in the United States. This 62 year old single woman quits her job, sells everything, and retires to Costa Rica with only two suitcases. The warmth and generosity of the Costa Rican people make her transition one that enriches her life. Learning the new customs and becoming an adopted member of a Costa Rican family adds to the experience in wonderful and exciting ways! There are many stories of the lives of the Ticos and expats that she meets along the way through these adventures and tales of daily life in this tropical paradise. Find out how the ordinary becomes extraordinary by reading this account of the first three years in Costa Rica.
